

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Music To Sleep To Releases “So Bright,” a Standout Track from the Hypnosonica Album

A 432Hz-tuned ambient piece designed to ease listeners into stillness, submitted for airplay consideration to Moon Phase Radio.

[CITY, STATE] — [RELEASE DATE]

Music To Sleep To, an ambient and sleep-music project known for calming, atmospheric soundscapes, has released “So Bright,” a track from its Hypnosonica album collection. The song is being submitted to Moon Phase Radio for airplay consideration as part of the station’s ambient and relaxation programming.

“So Bright” carries a quiet, reflective theme running through the release: the idea that stillness doesn’t have to wait for arrival at some future goal.

“Don’t wait until you are ‘done’ to breathe. The horizon never moves closer no matter how fast you run, so take a moment to sit down and enjoy the view exactly where you are.”

The track is part of the Hypnosonica album, presented in a 432Hz edition alongside companion pieces including “Dream Odyssey,” “Lucid Drift,” “Resonant Heart,” “Standing Waves,” “Breathe In,” “Flight to Celephaïs,” and “Rapidly Evolving Mindscape (REM).” The collection is built around slow, sustained tones and minimal arrangement, aimed at listeners seeking music for sleep, meditation, and focus.
